Probe Crash Sites

48 Are Killed In Collision And Crash

NORWALK, Calif. (AP) — Investigating teams from the Air Force and the Navy poked through scorched wreckage at two crash sites Sunday in an effort to learn what caused the awesome, mid-air collision of two big military planes over this Los Angeles suburb Saturday night.

Forty-eight persons met death when the stricken planes — a military transport and a navy patrol bomber — hurtled to earth in a terrifying display of explosion and fire.

Forty-one of the victims were occupants of the four-engine C118 Military Air Transport Service plane, six were aboard the twin-engine Navy Neptune patrol bomber. One was a housewife cut down by flying wreckage blocks away from where the transport hit.

Two crewmen from the Navy plane survived.

Interviews

Investigators were probing all phases of the crash, interviewing the two survivors, eye witnesses and control tower personnel, examining the crash scenes — some 2½ miles apart, and collecting the scattered wreckage for study.

The planes came together in clear, starlit skies approximately 2,500 feet above Norwalk, a community of 69,000, 20 miles south-east of Los Angeles.

Brig. Gen. George S. Cassidy of McGuire AFB, Trenton, N. J., deputy commander of the Atlantic Division of MATS, who flew out to take charge of the investigation for the transport service, made the following statement after a preliminary examination:

"The C118 crew was a fully qualified transport crew with airline standards.

Routine

"The C118 made a routine stop at Norton AFB, San Bernardino, Calif., Friday for a passenger drop and picked up more passengers at Long Beach on Saturday for return to McGuire AFB.

"The pilot of the C118 was making a normal climbout from Long Beach Municipal Airport. He had been given tower clearance to climb to 17,000 feet under visual flight regulations."

A Navy spokesman said the patrol bomber, manned by reservists, had taken off about 15 minutes before the collision from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, near Long Beach, on a routine 4-hour training flight around the local area.

The spokesman described the bomber crew as able and said the pilot a veteran Navy flier, had obtained clearance from the control tower.

Spun Down

The MATS plane scattered parts of wreckage over a five-block area as it spun downward. It broke apart completely over one of the busiest boulevards in Norwalk. The tail section tore into a service station and the main part of the fuselage plowed into the rear yard of the sheriff's substation across the street.

The Navy Neptune wobbled along for a mile or two before crashing in open land at Santa Fe Springs, barely missing a forest of oil derricks nearby.

The housewife victim was identified as Mrs. Edith Hernandez, 23. She was decapitated when she ran from her home to see what had happened. Two youngsters inside the house were unharmed.

NEWSMAN ASKS GOOD QUESTION

A harried newsmen covering the return of Charles Starkweather to the Nebraska Penitentiary tells the following story:

He grabbed a phone to give his office a running description of the scene. Dialing rapidly, he somehow became connected with the Penitentiary bakery and asked the voice on the other end of the line: "How the devil do you get out of this place?" referring to the phone connection. The reply: "I don't know but if you find out, let me know."

IT'S ROUGH, BOYS, BUT SAFE

Roger Zajicek, 7½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Zajicek of 2424 So. 15, finds the ice on the Lake Street pond just as officials advised it would be — rough, but safe for skating. Oak Creek Lake is the only one not yet solid enough, Glenn Suiker of the City Park Department advised. Snow clearing operations will begin Monday, he said, to take off the thin cover. The ice froze during windy days, accounting for the roughness, Suiker said. (Star Photo)

Reporter Wadhams Dies At 73

Covered City Hall More Than 40 Years

Phil Wadhams, 73, who covered the Lincoln City Hall for the Lincoln Journal from 1913 until his retirement in 1956, died Sunday night following an extended illness.

He was Lincoln's oldest active newspaperman at the time of his retirement. He joined the Journal staff in 1912 and had also covered the Legislature during his long association with the paper.

Many former mayors and city officials praised Mr. Wadhams as a reporter and as a person at the time he retired.

He was cited by the Inland Daily Press Assn. for one of his stories in 1954.

Before coming to the Journal, where he had filled nearly every position in the editorial office, Mr. Wadhams ran a weekly at Greeley, Neb.

During the early days of radio broadcasting, he broadcast for some time from the paper's newsroom.

His only son, Robert, was an Air Corps pilot in WW II and was lost with his plane over Europe. Mrs. Wadhams died in July, 1957.

Mr. Wadhams made his home at 4601 Normal Blvd.

Gardner

He was an avid gardener and bird fancier.

There is no immediate family. When he retired, the City Council passed a resolution giving him the "heartiest congratulations and best wishes of the City Council" in consideration of his "high plane of reporting on city affairs rendered since 1913 and the spirit of honesty, integrity and co-operation which

Kidnaped Cop Is Found Safe

One Of Gunmen Who Took Missouri State Trooper And Car Shoots Self

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Trooper William Little of the Missouri State Police was found safe Sunday night after one of the two gunmen who kidnaped him tried to kill himself and the other fled on foot.

Police at Paducah first reported Harold Davis, a former mental patient, was dead. They said later he was still alive and he was being brought to Paducah in an ambulance.

The other gunman, Carl E. Burton, was being tracked by many of the 123 police from four states who have been staging a massive manhunt for the three since Little was kidnaped Saturday night at Van Buren, Mo.

Police said Little and another man and woman had been held captive in a house in the small Melber community west of Paducah.

Lt. Col. Edmund Hockaday of the Missouri Highway Patrol, who talked to Little, said he learned that Burton had threatened to kill Davis before Davis shot himself.

Chained To Bed

Burton then fled on foot, Hockaday said, leaving Little chained with his own handcuffs to a bed in the house. The couple held prisoner with him turned him loose, and Little gave the alarm.

Planes joined in the massive air and ground search Sunday for the blue and white Missouri patrol car which vanished here about 10:30 Saturday night, just five minutes before a period of grace Little requested via the cruiser radio was to end.

Paducah police cars had come within a few feet of the auto, while trailing it for an hour and a half through the city but were warned not to close in for fear of Little's life.

Little, who voluntarily accompanied the gunman as a hostage in place of a young woman, asked for the grace period saying if police "let them get where they're going, they'll let me go."

Suspicious

The gunmen got the drop on Little and Carter County, Mo. Sheriff Snowden Dell about 6 p.m. Saturday night when the officers were questioning them.

The officers were forced to accompany the pair to a nearby filling station which the gunmen held up, obtaining about $45.

At the station, the two holdup men started to force Mrs. Evelyn Foster, 19, wife of station manager Thomas Foster, 19, to go with them as a hostage.

Foster pleaded "please don't take her. She's my wife." And trooper Little said "don't take her. If you've got to take somebody take me."

One gunman was identified as Harold W. Davis of Redwood City, Calif., 33-year-old ex-convict and former patient at a California mental hospital.

No Trial Date

No trial date has yet been set for the flame-haired, bow-legged killer. The next jury term starts Feb. 24th, but it appears likely he will not reach trial until the following term, scheduled for late March or early April.

Scheele had no comment on whether Starkweather's 14-year-old girl friend, Carl Fugate, still claims she was held hostage by Starkweather during his recent crime spree. Starkweather has told authorities she was "not involved" in the murders, but added she was his willing companion on the escapades.

Carl told a Casper, Wyo., deputy sheriff that Starkweather forced her to accompany him. Starkweather told Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp on the return auto trip from Douglas last Friday that Carl had numerous chances to escape if she had wished, but did not try.

Scheele took the lengthy statement from Starkweather Saturday and it was written down by court reporter Elmer Shenberg. The finished statement was delivered to Scheele Sunday afternoon.

He then took it to the Penitentiary — where Starkweather is being held under constant observation in a prison hospital cell — and had Starkweather read it over for approval. Starkweather then signed it, and Sheriff Karnopp and Dr. Robert Stein, local psychiatrist, witnessed the signing.

Dr. Stein and Karnopp were also present Saturday when the statement was taken.

Chief Deputy County Attorney Dale Fahrbruch was to take a written statement from Carl Fugate Sunday night at the Lincoln State Hospital, where she is being held for safekeeping. Fahrbruch

REAs Oppose Rise In Long-Term Interest Rates

The Rural Electrification magazine has warned that an increase in long-term interest rates would pose a serious problem to America's REAs and Rural Electric Co-operatives, faced as they are with the responsibility for area coverage and necessary service expansion that can require a capital outlay of nearly a billion dollars in the coming years.

The magazine spoke out against the Eisenhower administration's position that national REA loans should be increased from the present 2 per cent interest and that rural and co-operative electrification districts should be encouraged to seek financing in the private money market.

The administration has pointed out that the government is presently paying a higher rate for the money it borrows than it is charging the loan-seeking REA's.

Not Economic

The Rural Electrification Magazine answered by asserting that the question is not economic, but one of good faith.

It pointed out that REAs developed electric service in a sub-standard field and advisedly followed the philosophy of general area coverage rather than spot service where concentration of customers indicated satisfactory revenues.

Thirty-five year REA loans at two per cent are woven into that broad service fabric as a federal commitment of encouragement and good faith.

The magazine asserted that, "most sections of lines built under the area coverage philosophy and agreed to by both the co-operatives and Congress, are still not paying their share of the cost of operation and maintenance on a break-even basis."

It said: "We believe that we had an agreement with Congress when we assumed area coverage, and no change should be made at this time in the interest rates of the rural electric co-operatives. It should not even be considered until such time as the co-operatives have reached maximum payments."

"If it is ever necessary to review an increase in interest rates to the co-operatives, full hearings and a detailed investigation should be made as to the economic effect it would have on their rates and rates paid by the rural people."

Ministers Ask That City Ponder Responsibility In Slaying Case

By MARGARET DVORAK
Star Staff Writer

Lincolinites were asked Sunday to ponder the responsibility of this community, its schools and its churches in the Charles Starkweather tragedy last week.

Several local ministers spoke to their congregations on this theme.

"We are all tied together in this sorrow," Dr. Frank A. Court told the congregation of St. Paul Methodist Church, and should question just where we come in, and how we might have done more to prevent a boy to go so far astray.

"These two youths (Charles Starkweather and Carl Fugate) are products of our community and we all have to share responsibility that we didn't reach out and touch them with a higher line of thinking and action," he commented.

Lived Near Church

Commenting on the part of the church, Dr. Court said, "Here was a boy who lived only a few blocks from this church," yet he had never been brought into the fellowship of the church.

"I, too, as head of the City Council's Juvenile Crime Prevention Committee, must share in the sense of responsibility," Dr. Court added.

"All of us have lived through a harrowing week, a week which the thinking people of Lincoln will not forget for a long time," Dr. Fredrick Roblee told the congregation of Westminster Presbyterian church. "What is the great lesson we need to learn?" he asked. "Is it not to see what happened when blind and aggressive selfishness and complete disregard for the laws of God and men and the right of others take over in human lives? In the attitudes and actions of a young man and possibly also of a young woman we have had a look into hell—into the pit of human depravity—and it is a terrible sight."

'Some Of Blame Others'

"These young people, of course, are responsible for what they did," Dr. Roblee said, "but some of the blame must also be shouldered by many others. All of us in fact must share in the responsibility of allowing false standards and val-

Teen Killer Tells Dad That 'Caril Held Gun'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Charles Starkweather, red-haired confessed slayer of 11 persons, has further implicated his 14-year-old companion, Carl Fugate, in the trail of death which followed their hurried journey to Wyoming last week, according to a conversation he had with his father, Guy Starkweather.

Young Starkweather told his father in a visit at the State Penitentiary where the 19-year-old awaits trial on first degree murder charges that Carl held a gun on slain Lillian Fencil, housekeeper at the C. Lauer Ward home in Lincoln, while Charles "struggled with" Mrs. Ward and bound her hands, the elder Starkweather said.

The housekeeper was in the bathroom at the time, Starkweather said his son told him.

Stabbed While Bound

Mr. and Mrs. Ward and Miss Fencil were found murdered Wednesday afternoon. The women had been stabbed to death with their hands bound behind them.

Young Starkweather has orally confessed the slayings and eight others to Nebraska lawmen.

Carl and Starkweather are charged specifically with the Jan. 28 murder of Carol King, 16, of Benet.

She has told officials that she was an unwilling companion on the journey across Nebraska and that she attempted to escape. Starkweather at first backed up her story, but now claims that Carl was a "willing" companion.

The Starkweather family, not the youth, is receiving advice from family attorney Frederick Wagener of Lincoln, Starkweather said, but Wagener will not represent the youth in court.

Advised To Be Mute

That advice includes future lack of communication between the elder Starkweather and newsmen, he told The Star. And, other than verification of earlier statements and clarification of facts, the father would have nothing to say Sunday.

Guy Starkweather, a 47-year-old carpenter, visited his son both Saturday and Sunday at the Nebraska penitentiary where the 19-year-old youth is held for safekeeping pending prosecution for murder.

It was the finding last Monday of bodies of the slain Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and their two-year-old daughter, Betty Jean, that set off a hunt for Starkweather and his girl friend, Carl Ann Fugate, 14, daughter of Mrs. Bartlett by a previous marriage.

The elder Starkweather told the Associated Press Charles had related how he "scuffled" with Mrs. Bartlett. Mrs. Bartlett slapped Charles twice and Charles slapped her in return.

Bartlett Had Gun

Mr. Bartlett came rushing in, and had a gun, the father quoted the son as saying.

On other details of this portion of the son's story, Guy Starkweather was vague.

In reference to the slaying later

Eight Die As Blaze Hits Home

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Eight people including three small children perished Sunday in a flash fire near Guy, Ark., which destroyed a small frame dwelling used as temporary living quarters.

Three persons escaped.

Sheriff Joe Castleberry identified the dead as Fred Wiedower, 51; his son Fred Gack, 10; Dan Henderson, 65, and his wife Cora, 64; their son-in-law and daughter, C. B. Marsh Jr., 37, and Mrs. Marsh, 21, and the Marsh's two daughters, Debra Dianne, 4, and Martha Jane, 2.

Those who escaped were Fred Wiedower's wife, Bonnie, 44, their son, Dallas, 21, and John C. Glover, about 50, who lived with the Wiedowers. The Hendersons and Marshes, residents of Tangburn, Ark., were visiting.

Jumped

Mrs. Wiedower, who jumped out of an upstairs window, was hospitalized with burns. Glover suffered only a cut hand and Dallas Wiedower, who was asleep downstairs.

Castleberry said the blaze apparently was touched off by a downstairs wood-burning stove which was started an hour before by Fred Wiedower. The officer said the flames quickly spread through the small structure, which had been lined with cardboard.

GUN-TOTING ESCAPEE SETS OFF LONG CHASE

A shotgun-toting, 16-year-old escapee from Kearney State Boys Training School at Kearney led State Safety Patrol officers a long chase before he was apprehended Sunday at North Platte.

About 7:30 p.m. Saturday the youth left the school in a stolen pick-up truck.

Early Sunday he broke into a farmhouse near Elmwood, drove to Overton and abandoned the truck. Shortly afterwards he stole another car.

Soon after the second car was stolen he was spotted by Trooper Dick Knight at North Platte. After the wild-driving teenager nearly ran over a child, the officer curbed him in North Platte.

The youth told the patrolman he had a loaded shotgun and "I would have used it if I had had a chance."

Refreshed Ike Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington Sunday after a weekend spent at Augusta, Ga.

He came back cheered by the launching of America's first satellite, and refreshed by some golf. He also got in some bridge playing.

Eisenhower traveled to Augusta Friday and promptly got in his first regular round of golf since he suffered a minor stroke last Nov. 25. He played 15 holes before gusty winds and the threat of a storm sent him back to the club house.

Friday night the President stayed up late for the launching of the first United States satellite and word it was orbiting around the earth. He called it wonderful news and congratulated all who had a part in the project.

High winds limited the President's golf game again Saturday. He was able to play only four holes, but he and a group of friends got in several rubbers of bridge at the Augusta National Golf Club. There was more bridge Saturday night at the Eisenhower cottage on the edge of the golf course.

Kansas Cops Seek Three Jail Escapees

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP)—Three heavily armed men were sought Sunday in the Garden City area after escaping from the Hutchinson County jail at Stinnett, Tex.

The Garden City office of the Kansas Highway Patrol said the three have said they would not be taken alive.

Highway Patrolmen said the three were seen Sunday near Garden City but apparently escaped in their car on back roads in the sand dune area southeast of town.

The men escaped the Texas jail by slugging the jailer and taking the keys from his wife. They fled in the jailer's car.

Sheriff Hugh Anderson at Stinnett identified the fugitives as Charles Screws, 34, Vernon, Tex.; W. C. Brown, 30, Amarillo, Tex.; and Jack Trebbe, 26, Topeka, Kan.

They evaded road blocks established at a number of points in the Texas Panhandle. Stinnett is 12 miles north of Borger, Tex.

The sheriff said Screws, held on a charge of armed robbery, had spent 14 of the last 17 years in Texas and Oklahoma prisons.

Anderson said Trebbe was being held for Kansas authorities as a parole violator. Brown was sentenced to three years in prison last week for forgery.

Congratulated

BRISBANE, Australia (INS)—Touring British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan cabled this message to President Eisenhower: "Very glad to hear of your successful launching of an earth satellite. Many congratulations on this fine achievement."

Four Killed

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Dallas fire officials identified the bodies of four persons recovered from the ruins of a two-story brick apartment house destroyed Sunday by fire.

The victims—all about 45 years old—were identified by Deputy Fire Marshall D. C. Lester as Mr. and Mrs. Larry Courin, Everett Lee Koons and Al Routh.

A search of the debris failed to disclose any more victims of the blaze, which hospitalized six persons, including five members of one family. Police said tenants occupied 15 of the 16 units in the building on Dallas' south side.

Reds List Candidates For Supreme Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Press have reported first nominations throughout the Soviet Union of candidates for this year's Supreme Soviet (Parliament) elections. Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev's name headed the list.

Nominations were made at mass meetings of workers in Moscow and other cities. Premier Nikolai Bulganin's name did not appear on the first lists. Most quarters agreed it was too early to draw any conclusions from omissions at this stage.

Recedes A Little

LONDON (INS) — Soviet Ambassador to Britain Jacob Malik making his first appearance on British television, said he thinks the danger of an East-West war has receded a little in the past year.

However, Malik said, at any time "something very dangerous" could happen.

Malik was interviewed on Britain's commercial TV network.

Nominated

MOSCOW (INS)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported that the Kalinin District has nominated Nikita S. Khrushchev for re-election to the Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament.

Khrushchev is first secretary of the Communist party, the only legal political party in the Soviet Union.

Butler Says New Plan Readied To Aid Financial Support Of Both Parties

... Alcorn Charges Breach Of Faith

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, said Sunday a new plan is being readied to promote "grass roots" financial support of both the Democratic and Republican parties. Meade Alcorn, GOP national chairman, heatedly accused Butler of "a shocking breach of faith" and headline grabbing in lifting the secrecy of the plan.

Jewett To Confer In Washington On Savings Bond Plan

Grey R. Jewett Sr., of Lincoln will leave for Washington this week to confer with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson on plans to increase the purchase of United States Savings Bonds in 1958.

Jewett, assistant superintendent in charge of industrial relations and production at the Western Electric Co., of Lincoln, will serve as general chairman of a savings bond campaign in Lancaster County later this year. He was asked by Anderson to come to the nation's capitol to help lay groundwork for the event.

While in Washington Jewett will meet with Vice President Nixon, Defense Secretary McElroy, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin and Undersecretary of the Treasury Julian B. Baird.

Lincoln and Lancaster County comprise one of the five Nebraska communities where intensified Savings Bond drives will be held. The others are Omaha, Hastings, Grand Island and North Platte. More than 200 communities in the nation will hold similar campaign.

Information Media Cited For Aid In Traffic Safety

Col C. J. Sanders of the Nebraska Safety Patrol has commended the state's public information media for their co-operation in efforts to prevent traffic fatalities in 1957.

"You have been the lifeline of education to the people and your co-operation in helping to mold proper public attitudes toward safety is appreciated," the commendation said.

Such public service, Col. Sanders said, has played a part in the reduction of traffic fatalities in 1957—13 less than 1956.

The year 1957 was the fourth consecutive year that Nebraska has had a decrease in traffic deaths.

DEPLANE'S

Along about 1519, Hernan Cortez sailed into Vera Cruz with 600 men and 16 horses.

"Behold the rich lands!" said a cavalier on the sun-struck deck. This seemed a likely omen to Cortez. He named it La Villa Rica de la Vera Cruz. The Rich City of the True Cross.

Eventually the sand flies drove the Spaniards inland to Cempoala. But the port is still a seaport—the rattle of ships' winches wakes you in the morning. And early before dawn, I went out on the balcony and saw a lighted freighter docking. So close and so still that you could hear the jangle bell of the engine room telegraph.

It is warm down here on the coast. (Mexico City is freezing cold). The town has a small but pretty plaza with trees planted in an orderly manner.

One whole side of the street is a series of restaurants under portals.

It is brightly lighted. The food is good. It is one of the liveliest streets in Mexico for business.

POSTCARD

There is the man selling serapes. He has a big white mustache and a big straw hat. His serapes are over his shoulder. He stands off at 10 paces and unfolds the serape to show you.

"I do not need a serape." "No?" As though you had said, "I do not need clothing." After unfolding the serape, he puts one end in your hand. If you take it, he lets go. As if you had bought it.

The lottery ticket sellers are all over the sidewalks. Dodging among the waiters.

A few dogs wander among the tables. If you speak to them, they sit down as though invited to dinner. A few merchant seamen, slightly drunk, lurched up the street. A boy passes by carrying a huge lobster.

Photographers are on the street. They will take your picture and have it back in 15 minutes in an ornate frame. Price, $1.24 for three.

An Indian in sandals is selling model airplanes. He carries half a dozen ranging from three feet to three inches. They are tin or aluminum and very realistic. "Vera Cruz" is painted on each wing.

A street band of three marimba players and a man scraping on a gourd plays under the portals. After a couple of pieces, the man with the gourd passes around among the tables and asks for contributions.

At one end of the square, there is a rickety streetcar line. When the car comes up to the corner, the policeman blows his whistle and waves it on. The streetcar motorman pays no attention to him.

There is a tall church across the street, glowing with candle light. The benches in the plaza are filled with people. The air is warm and there is a smell of rain.

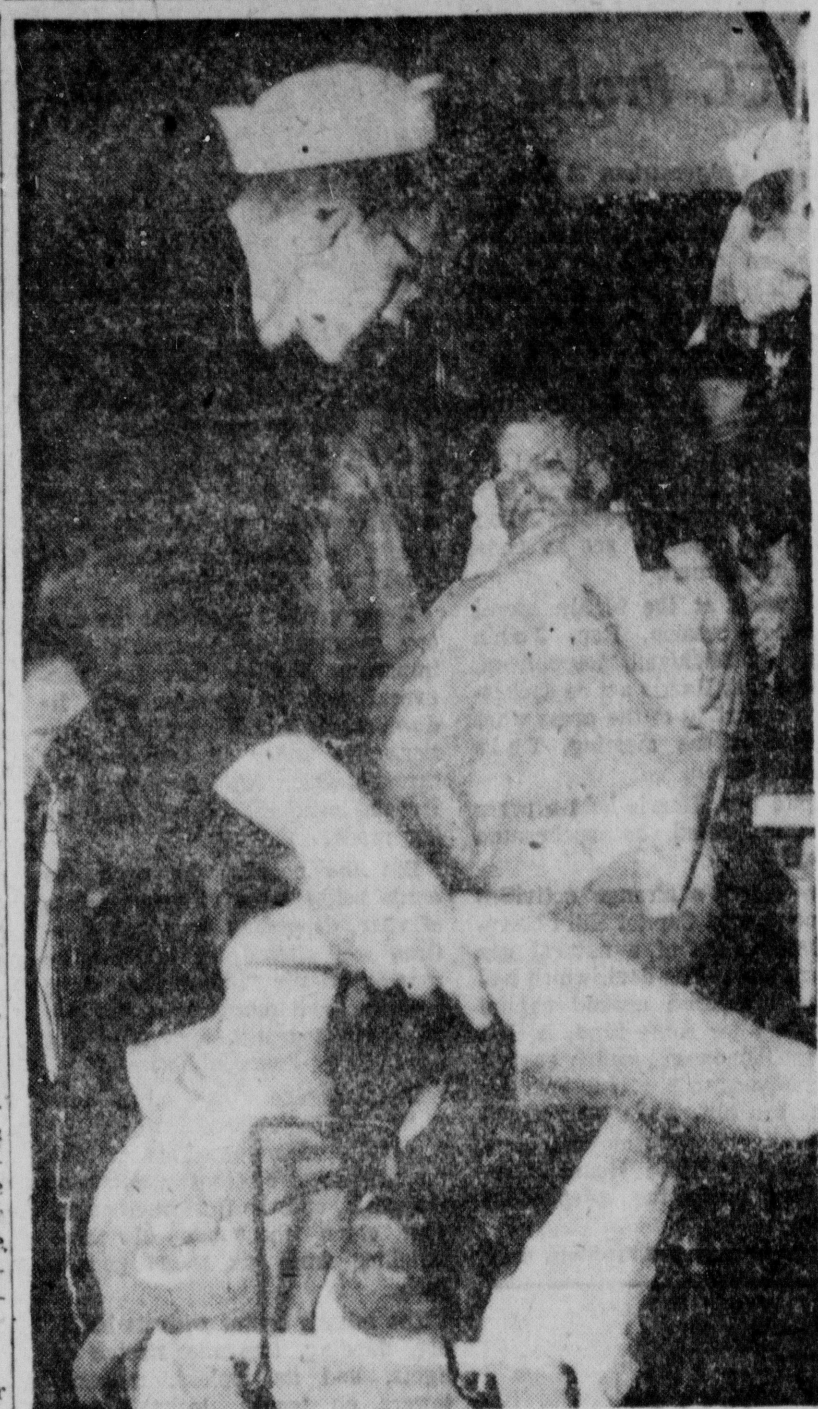

For a few cents, you get a huge platter of fresh shrimp. They serve it with a plate of limes and a bottle of fiery red hot sauce. The best local fish is small red snapper sauteed in butter. The Mexican beer is light and tangy.

The serape salesman is back. He has turned his hat down in front as a disguise. He also has a different supply of serapes. Most of them are the rainbow colors of Saltillo. The kind that sells best to the tourist.

Two dogs are waiting for dinner under the table.

10% State Farmers Bid To 'Chuck It All'

Almost 1 In 10 Seek To Get Soil Bank To Take Entire Farm

More than 11,600 Nebraska farmers — nearly one out of 10 in the state — have offered the government a chance to take their entire croplands out of production, a State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) official reported Sunday night.

The tally is not yet complete and the final total is expected to be somewhere between 12,000 and 13,000 bids, said the ASC soil bank specialist Robert Zink.

Friday night was the deadline for bids under the experimental soil bank program but not all returns are in from county ASC offices, Zink said.

Topping all expectations, the 11,600 bids already counted would, if accepted, retire 1,450,000 acres of Nebraska's 21 million cropland acres, or about seven per cent of the state's crop soil.

The 11,600 farming units involved represent nearly 10 per cent of the 120,000 units which the ASC estimates Nebraska to have.

Probably little more than one-fourth of the cropland which farmers are bidding to place in the soil bank will wind up there, however.

410,000-Acre Goal Zink said Nebraska's goal in the experimental program was set originally at 410,000 acres. Between 6½ and 7 million dollars are available to finance one year of this entire-farm soil bank program in Nebraska.

Zink said the money available should just about meet the 410,000-acre goal originally set.

Referring to speculation on social and economic effects of this apparent inclination of farmers to chuck it all and earn their money by not farming, Zink said he expects the U.S. Department of Agriculture to set a percentage limit on the amount of any one county's cropland which can be retired — perhaps as low as five per cent.

One of 4 States Nebraska is one of four states — others are Illinois, Tennessee and Maine — in which the experimental program is being tried. Under the plan farmers submit a bid — the amount of money per acre they would demand to retire all their cropland for either five or 10 years.

SPRING MERIT EXAMS DUE BY FEBRUARY 24

Applications for the spring examinations offered by the Nebraska Merit System must be postmarked not later than February 24, it has been announced.

The exams will be given March 17 through March 29 to high school commercial seniors.

Application forms may be obtained from county welfare offices, Nebraska State Employment Service offices, high school commercial teachers, or from the Merit System office, 2002 State Capitol, Lincoln.

These examinations will be given to members of this year's graduating classes who wish to qualify for beginning positions as typists and stenographers in the State Departments of Public Welfare, Employment Security and Health.

The job openings for which these seniors will qualify are in the state offices of the three agencies served by the Merit System and in the county offices of public welfare, city-county offices of public health and the state employment offices.

The examination date for a particular school will be one selected by the school during the period offered. The place of the examinations will be at any school with five or more applications and a school with less than five applications may go to the examination center of its choice.

U.S. Satellite Launched

The launching of the satellite Explorer by the United States is everything the experts and officials say it is and even more. It is "wonderful," as President Eisenhower put it. It is a "tribute to loyalty, determination and persistence against great odds," as Democratic Senate leader Lyndon B. Johnson put it. It is "an answer to those who are selling America short in this field," as Republican Senate leader William Knowland of California put it.

The Army is deserving of a loud round of applause from all quarters for its successful launching of the satellite and the other services are to be commended for their efforts in this field. Here is vivid proof to the world that the United States is a tremendous storehouse of energy, creative genius, determination and strength. The launching should be a tremendous aid in this nation's affairs and dealings with the rest of the world.

At home, the satellite should invoke confidence in many areas and could well be the stimulus that is needed to curb the current decline in economy. But in the celebration of this launching, and it is sincere celebration, we can not lose sight of certain truths.

Russia has already done what we have done. She is working at top speed toward even higher goals. We can be jubilant with this launching but we cannot rest. It is no sign that doubts of the past few months about our military organization, our defense, our educational system and other phases of national concern have been unfounded. The launching should serve as a stimulant to greater achievement, not as a sleeping pill.

Why So Many?

State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation officials have estimated that the 1st of Nebraska grain farmers wanting in on the total acreage take-out test program of the Department of Agriculture will pass 12,000.

The preference for non-production in return for subsistence payments considerably exceeded the expectation of most observers.

Obviously many will be sent away empty handed. The ASC office is working under a

Profit And Loss

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The shocking sequence of events of the past week which left this city mourning the death of 11 people cannot be forgotten for many reasons. There are the human emotions which never permit something so horrible to be forgotten. This is the loss of human life, without cause or reason, that can never be regained. Nothing can be done to even soften the blow for the family and friends of the victims of the crazed killer who blazed a trail of terror across Nebraska.

But there are a great many ways and places in which Lincoln can profit from what has happened. It is in this respect that it is imperative that there be a factual and impartial determination of the police handling of the Starkweather case. The Police Department investigation is only a part of the picture but an important one, and most of all, a significant one. As to its importance it goes without saying that every effort should be made that nothing like this is ever permitted to happen again. Violent crimes will always be a possibility but it is the responsibility of the citizens through its law enforcement agencies to see that such a possibility is made as remote as human being can make it. The possibility of crime is in direct proportion to a number of things, important among them the caliber and efficiency of the Police Department. In this particular case, there appear to be too many loose ends that were never tied together by the Police Department, a degree of carelessness within the Department in the performance of their duty, a degree of indifference to their work and a definite lack of co-operation and co-ordination between city, state and county law enforcement officials.

It is vital that these matters be cleared up for if the situation is at all like it appears possible, it must be corrected. Reports on investigations appear sketchy and carelessly done. Is this true according to good police methods? If so, a better system must be devised. There appears to be a lack of co-ordination on this investigation between groups of officers investigating at one time and another group at another time. If this is so according to proper police standards then a system needs to be devised for securing the proper co-ordination. Does overall lack of experience on the police force and its strength in manpower have any bearing on the nature of the investigation? It seems possible and if so, it will have to be changed by better schooling of men in crime work, more men and higher salaries. At the same time, it should be determined what, besides salaries, might exist to discourage service on the Police Department. Are there any organizational faults which provide such discouragement? Are the men in the Police Department stimulated and inspired by leadership or dulled by the work and attitude of officials? These are not accusations. They are questions this case has raised in the minds of the people and questions even the Police Department should welcome an impartial answer to.

But that is just the Police Department itself. If the investigation is accepted as just, proper and efficient then other things in connection with the case would also be accepted. Has Lincoln outgrown its present Police Department and allowed inertia and inefficiency to set in? Have a great many other things come to pass in Lincoln without their realization on the part of citizens? If our Police Department is adequate and crimes as hideous as the one we have experienced can be expected, then we have failed to recognize that Lincoln has grown up? It is time we recognize this is a city of 125,000 people or more. It is a city which has poverty, hunger, immorality and other problems from which crime and criminals spring. But are we ready to face this and do something about it, even spend some money, or should we expect this sort of thing and leave it go at that? Lincoln has become a city, not just an overgrown farming community.

But that is not bad unless its citizens fail to shoulder their responsibility. Some 15 or 20 percent of the eligible voters in Lincoln take the time to vote at elections. That is a deplorable lack of interest in affairs of government—affairs which the Starkweather case has clearly shown can deeply affect each and every individual life. Lincoln can be a fine and wonderful city but it will not be so by itself. You can have a city in which you are afraid to have a son and daughter on the streets after dark. You can have, and this is not to even hint we do have, a corrupt police department and city administration. But you can have it the other way, pride in your city and confidence in its administration, if you are willing to make the sacrifice. The Starkweather case has placed us at the crossroads. The choice is now yours. Before you are willing to accept any phase of what has happened as a part of your community, please ponder the consequences.

Public Pressure Spurred FCC Probe

WASHINGTON — Public pressure on the Moulder committee has been so heavy that it's now starting a superficial probe of the FCC scandals it was supposed to investigate in the first place but ducked last week.

Present secret strategy is to make Chairman John Doerfer of the Federal Communications Commission the chief goat, and to skirt gingerly around most of the other fingling and influence peddling in both the FCC and other independent agencies.

The man who tried to steer the committee away from any thorough probe in the first place, but who has now come around to a brief probe, is Congressman Owen Harris of Arkansas, faithful friend of the big utilities, the gas companies, of Pan American Airways, and who received a nice 25-percent block of stock in station KRBB-TV in El Dorado, Ark., for only $5,000 when it was worth three times that much.

The fact that he accepted this at a time when he was in a position to use his influence with the FCC to secure increased power for his station puts him in the same position as some of the Eisenhower appointees, fired for conflicts of interest. This may be why Harris, one year late, has announced he will sell the stock.

Though Congressman Morgan Moulder of Missouri is chairman of the investigating subcommittee, Harris, as chairman of the full committee, has constantly hounded, overruled, and ridden herd on Moulder. He has shown such brazen determination to usurp Moulder's functions that it's the talk of Capitol Hill.

Harris has jealously retained for himself the power to issue subpoenas; even appropriates for himself the right to act as committee spokesman.

Last week at the highly secret closed-door session, Rep. John Bennett of Michigan, Republican, proposed that Harris act as spokesman in reporting to the press what happened at the meeting. This was voted down.

Despite this, Harris held a press conference, acted as spokesman anyway.

Note—Harris's strange activities have convinced Capitol Hill observers that reports of a natural gas deal are true. The deal, which has been whispered around Capitol cloakrooms for some time, is that the Republicans will switch enough northern votes to Harris to pass his natural gas bill, while Harris will not investigate some of the highly embarrassing White House wire-pulling inside the independent agencies.

Creampuff Pilferer Caught In Guilty Act

Gypsy is a dachshund in whom a vast emptiness of frustration surrounds a full stomach. A cream puff was her undoing.

Gypsy had no right to the cream puff, and she knew it. Furthermore, she had no right to climb on the table in the breakfast nook to get it, and she knew that, too. Appetite exceeded caution, however, and larceny won out. She hasn't been the same since.

The cream puff was all alone in the middle of a saucer on the otherwise clear table, left over from lunch. Gypsy's nose told her it was there. Her conscience told her to leave it alone. The conscience was effective only while somebody was in the room. Dogs are remarkably like a great many people in this respect.

The thing Gypsy did not know was that the need for a drink of water took me back to the kitchen just as the last barrier of her conscience gave way. She was so intent upon scrambling up onto the bench beside the table that she did not see me in the doorway. A sudden tremendous curiosity kept me silent. A cream puff is not an easy thing to handle, even with two hands, a fork and a napkin for a shield. Gypsy had none of these.

Besides, she was in a hurry.

Cream puffs are explosive. This one was no exception. The filling popped out of the pastry shell like a rocket taking off from White Sands. It must have looked to Gypsy like the biggest part of her stolen meal was getting away. She dropped the shell, twisted in mid-skid and snapped at the hurtling cream. Her aim was not of the best. One large glob of cream stuck to the end of her nose. Smaller particles adhered to her whiskers, forehead and chest.

Still skidding, she scooped up a large part of the pastry shell on her second turn, then came to a full stop looking directly at me.

As I watched, she appeared to be in the process of becoming one of the few cross-eyed dachshunds in existence.

The ensuing commotion brought Mrs. F. to the kitchen. She emptied a glass of water on me, and said it was bad enough to find Gypsy on the table, without also finding me rolling on the floor, holding my sides.

As a penalty, I had to clean up the table. Jeep, the other dachshund, was luckier. He got to clean up Gypsy.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Seaton And Nixon Discuss Northwest

WASHINGTON — In the hope of reversing certain policies of the Eisenhower administration, a half dozen key figures, including Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, have been holding informal meetings recently to discuss high political strategy.

These night meetings, usually following a dinner in the handsome private dining room of the office suite of Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton, take in the younger members of the administration generally regarded as allies of Nixon looking to his nomination and election in 1960. Every effort has been made to keep the meetings secret.

This group, which includes Attorney General William P. Rogers and Chairman Meade A. Acheson of the Republican National Committee, constitutes a new focus of power. Seaton, one of the ablest members of the cabinet, is being definitely upgraded, and if conservation and other policies of Interior can be given a new look, he is a conspicuous possibility as a vice-presidential candidate with Nixon.

At a dinner meeting about two months ago, at which Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, was present, the group is reported to have frankly discussed the handicap of the power and conservation stand of the first Eisenhower term. They considered also what could be done to put a new aspect on the administration's approach to issues that directly influence voters in a large section of the country.

The "partnership" power and other policies of Seaton's predecessor, Douglas McKay, won little favor in the West. McKay resigned as Secretary of Interior to run for the Senate against Senator Wayne Morse in Oregon. The Republican party poured large sums of money into McKay's campaign and both President Eisenhower and Nixon came into the state for him, yet Morse won by a fairly sizeable majority, charging a "give away" of natural resources.

The Nixon strategy board has realistically appraised this and other Republican losses in the West and Northwest. In states such as Oregon and Washington, once regarded as comfortable Republican preserves, the Democrats now hold most high offices. Power, irrigation and conservation are issues that directly touch voters in at least a dozen states.

One of Seaton's recent moves was to call for consideration of a reversal of McKay's order opening up wild life refuge lands to oil drillers. This had produced an angry outcry from conservationists who protested that the last remaining areas for protection of wild fowl were about to be despoiled. Seaton has recommended that only if oil beneath wild life refuge lands is about to be drained by neighboring oil operations should a drilling permit be granted.

In another move, Seaton is insisting that a government official be chairman of the National Petroleum Council in accord with a longstanding Department of Justice directive. Previous secretaries of the Interior, from Harold L. Ickes on, ignored the directive in the belief it was best to let the industry express its viewpoint through the council chairman. Seaton says his conscience will not permit him to do this. The oil industry is not amused by this gambit.

A year ago Seaton notified the Federal Power Commission that he had asked the Bureau of Reclamation to make a new study of dam sites near the controversial Hells Canyon site on the Snake River. Hells Canyon has been an explosive issue in the West and Seaton's action was interpreted as an overture toward those who have fought for multi-purpose dams on the Columbia River and its tributaries in the Northwest.

The FPC a week ago denied the application of the Pacific Northwest Power Company to develop the two sites. But if this is in fact a new approach to power in the West, there are many steps still to be taken, including a request for funds to build multipurpose dams.

When Strong Men Wept At Ulcer's Gulch

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Science Editor

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — There is some disagreement whether this U.S. missile center should be nicknamed "Cape Carnival" or "Ulcers Gulch."

Everyone is agreed that the canopy overhead is America's most important sky — that the Canaveral missile center with its down-range island tracking stations lies under an oval opening through which America's first bid for the conquest of space is being made.

But the people who walk the earth below have differing points of view, depending on which emotions are stirred by the mighty roaring missile "birds" that leave the cape and merge with the sky on space journeys stretching out hundreds or thousands of miles.

To men who come down here to fish "Cape Carnival" may make a very good name. This is also the salt water trout capital of the world, and the fishermen every year catch thousands of them weighing from six to 16 pounds each.

The missile center with its blinking, dancing, two-mile stretch of lights, and its topless, movable towers on tracks, looks like a gargantuan Coney Island.

The Air Force, owner of the most imposing of the towers, has installed in them daylight lighting that looks blue or green from a distance and adds to the effect. The missiles themselves have a remote, out-of-this-world kinship with a fireworks display.

But to the men who can be seen through powerful telescopes swinging like monkeys through the towers, to nurse and attend the missiles, this is no "carnival." They are, pretty bitter on the point, and much prefer the name "Ulcer's Gulch."

The character acquired by the missiles is to blame for the dispute. These giants of the sky have so much human effort in them that they wield a human power to arouse love, exultation, fear, frustration and despair in the men who have given part of themselves to the work.

It makes little difference whether the missile's mission is to carry an H-bomb warhead that might help destroy the human race, or an earth satellite to explore outer space. The blood, sweat and tears that go into them are the same.

Usually the missiles are called "birds," but sometimes they become "The Monster," "The Beast" or "The Beauty." Whatever the name, it is spoken with respect and affection — sometimes angry affection. So far untamed, the monsters are to the missileer what the eternal sea is to a fisherman.

The reason for the term "Ulcer's Gulch" are probably best illustrated by the experience with the Navy's Vanguard satellite missile.

Here was a $110,000,000 undertaking, with two and one-half years of effort and an inordinate amount of national pride invested. Yet the first time the Vanguard's ignition button was pushed on December 6, the satellite missile blew up and disappeared in a tremendous column of black smoke that reached almost from earth to sky.

For the Vanguard launching crew member who later stumbled into a tavern, there had been no picnic. Almost blind with fatigue, he had worked day and night for all but exactly fifteen hours of that week. It would be hard to imagine a human being more physically and mentally stricken.

Again last week, the Vanguard launching effort was on. Hopeful of firing Thursday morning, the men worked through Wednesday night. Hopeful of launching Thursday night, they worked through Thursday.

Friday went by. The weather was bad when the missile was in shape, or the weather was good and there was something wrong with the missile. Then came Saturday night.

Nearby stood the Army's "Jupiter C" satellite missile, thrown together from military rockets in less than three months by Dr. Werner von Braun and his almost unbelievably efficient subordinates at Redstone Arsenal in Alabama.

If things didn't go well that Saturday night, the Vanguard's little remaining place in history, greatly diminished by the Russian Sputniks, would be gobbled up by the Army — which was only waiting for the Navy to release the test range.

The relentless hours and minutes of the "count down" ticked on, with hundreds of final checks being made. At one point the count got down to the last 22 seconds, but when a certain button was pushed it failed to release the Vanguard's "umbilical cord" — cable stretched to a separate tower which is a missile's last connection with the earth.

Then the count got down to 14 seconds, but this time the trouble was more serious. Liquid oxygen held too long in the tanks at 300 degrees below zero had frozen moving parts, and nitric acid was eating into the shell of the second stage. There was nothing to do but to "scrub" and let the Army go ahead.

To see strong men cry is supposed to be a disgusting sight, but if that is so, it is just too bad. For the fact is that many of the Vanguard crew members broke down and wept.

Praise Of Court House

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: West of the Missouri, and south of the Platte lies the venerable Lancaster County Court House. In this community it's one of the biggest bargains enjoyed by the local taxpayers. It very properly sits in the center of a full block of tax-exempt real estate, and is free of any bonded indebtedness. Located on the southwest fringe of any congested traffic area, its public customers are not forever plagued with the parking problems surrounding City Hall, or the State House. Parking is still free, and more parking stalls will be available, as soon as the County Commissioners decide to order off-street parking for the south side of the Court House. Anyway, it would be more convenient for the members of the "posse comitatus" when they report for duty at the request of the County Sheriff.

Heating costs for the Court House are very reasonable, and they are now getting their electricity at public power rates. Square footage within the structure is more efficiently utilized, than in many other court houses. In Omaha, the Douglas County Court House, with its overhead on the roof jail represents a taxpayer's extravaganza. Its impressive inner rotunda serves no other public purpose except that of being impressive. It occupies a lot of floor space. In comparison, the former inner rotunda of the Lancaster County Court House is now used as an elevator shaft for the finest passenger elevator in the city. We are very fortunate in having so little square footage in the Court House that is not furnishing maximum service for the use and benefit of the local taxpayers.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: On behalf of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, I want to thank The Star for the fine publicity given our church during the past years. We are especially grateful for the publishing of our church announcements each week. We also appreciate the fine coverage of our Diamond Jubilee activities and the district convention held in our church last year. I personally appreciate the Sunday church page and hope that it will continue to serve the cause of our churches in Lincoln as it has in the past.

Needless Deaths?

Lincoln, Neb.

I have always looked up to the police, and taught my children to do likewise. Last week I was involved in a car accident. The police arrived sometime after they were called twice. The first thing they did was to ask me what wrecker I wanted. No question as to whether I was injured. The other party was given a ticket for failure to yield the right of way. The policeman had my driver's license in hand and asked my age. What is the purpose of listing one's birthday if the police cannot figure? Since the experience I have heard so many grievances concerning the police that I am wondering if they get a commission on wrecker service. This policeman was very rude when I chose to take care of that myself.

MISS BARBARA LOIS BRITTIN

Of particular interest to town and campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brittin of Lansing, Mich., formerly of Lincoln, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Barbara Lois, to Lt. Wyndell Franklin Fordham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny L. Fordham of Cochran, Ga.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, May 31. Miss Brittin is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, of which she is president; and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary for women in journalism.

Mr. Fordham, who is stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base, attended Georgia Teachers College, Collegeboro, Ga.

SUBURBIA

COTNER TERRACE

Word came from St. Elizabeth's Hospital on Thursday, Jan. 30, of the arrival of Miss Donna Lee Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fischer, Jr. The young lady has a brother, Frankie, and three sisters, Janice, Carol and Joan, and her grandparents are Mrs. and Mrs. Francis Hickey of Sanborn, Ia., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fischer of Ogden, Utah.

Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey arrived in Cotner Terrace on Thursday to lend a helping hand. Mr. Hickey plans to return home this week while Mrs. Hickey will remain for a two week stay.

Understand that Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fontaine have been entertaining numerous house guests recently. On January 20, Mr. Fontaine's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fender and their son, Jimmy, of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived in the suburb for a five day visit.

And arriving last Monday was Mrs. Fontaine's sister-in-law, Mrs. Gordon Juntunen of Duluth, Minn., who is planning an extended visit at the Fontaine home.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

A new member of the bassinet brigade in Pershing Heights is Christopher Wayne Bowman who was born at St. Elizabeth's hospital on Friday, Jan. 31. The proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Bowman, and Chris has a sister, Cynthia Jo. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowman, and Mrs. Clara Peterson is the maternal grandmother.

PORTENDING spring events always cast pleasant shadows in the late winter—and perhaps one of the most anticipated of the March activities is the annual exhibit for which members of the Nebraska Art Association board and committees are up to their ears in plans.

While the exhibit, its outlines, its arranging and the dozen and one details that create a successful art show, are work, so are the special features—such as the Living Pictures that traditionally open the exhibit.

THIS YEAR'S general chairman for the Living Pictures is Mrs. Joseph Silverman who this morning makes announcement of the cast—and the committees that will work behind the scenes.

The pictures to be portrayed—the artists and the cast will be as follows:

Harriet—by Robert Philip, portrayed by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Forke.

Emma—by Gladys Rockmore Davis, Miss Susan Backstrom.

Sulky Star—by Jack Cage Stark, Miss Sydna Hazen and Mrs. Margaret Morrison.

Luncheon in the Studio—Manet, Jim Seacrest.

The Mante Family—Degas, Mrs. John Champe, Miss Jeanne Howard and Miss Kathy Costin.

Seated: Harlequin—Pissarro, Jim Sheldon.

Poster—Toulouse-Lautrec,

Miss Emily Schossberger and Mrs. Charles Watts.

Nana—Manet, Mrs. Tom Lawrie.

The Mantilla Shawl—Matisse, Mrs. Harold Cullinan.

Edouard Manet et sa Femme—Berthe Marisot, James and Wallis Swanson.

SERVING as chairman of the costumes committee is Mrs. John Wilson who is assisted by Mrs. Joseph Lotto, Mrs. Richard Wilson, Mrs. M. P. Broisma, Mrs. Robert Mowbray, Mrs. E. D. Zeman, Mrs. Bruce Hazen, Mrs. Robert Patterson and Mrs. Howard Mitchell.

Not even the most minute detail can be overlooked by the properties committee which this year is composed of Mrs. Frank Turner and Mrs. G. L. Christoffersen, and there is an art to the make-up for each member of the Living Pictures cast—and for the approaching show this task is in the capable hands of Mrs. Richard Agee, chairman; Mrs. Jack Stewart, Mrs. Clarke Faulkner, Mrs. Bruce Nicoll, Mrs. Richard Joyce and Mrs. Norman Shaw.

Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Faulkner, by the way, are doing double duty this season—they also are the casting committee.

No Smoke—No Romance

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am no crackpot. I am a law student and would like your opinion. I am going with a girl who has all the qualities a man could ask for but she is odd in one respect. She says the smell of cigar smoke makes her romantic. She buys me cigars and asks me to smoke them. I am crazy over this girl and can't figure out what cigar smoke has to do with romance. Have you any ideas on the subject?

R. M. U. C.

DEAR R. M. U. C.: The aroma of cigar smoke apparently awakens pleasant memories (probably of her father—don't worry!) but if that's all it takes to make her romantic—light one up, put it on the ashtray and let it burn.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live upstairs from my mother. My husband doesn't talk to my mother because of some argument about our three dogs. My mother is 70 and she gets very mad when our dogs go on her grass or break up a few of her flowers. I try to tell my mother they don't mean any harm, but she doesn't understand. I try to tell my husband to please forgive my mother because she is getting old. She used to invite us downstairs for Sunday dinner, but since my husband won't talk to her she stopped that. Please help us.

DEAR NEEDING: Your husband should realize that an aging person is sometimes short of patience. Try to patch it up and it would help if you kept your dogs tied up and off her property.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old and have been married for two years. My husband is 22 and we have a darling five-month-old baby. My husband has a friend who plays the guitar in a bar and he likes to go hear him. I don't mind going in bars because he can take a few drinks and stop. My problem is that I am not old enough to go to bars with him and won't be for three years yet. I hate to tell him he can't go without me. How should we solve this?

TOO YOUNG

DEAR TOO: Your husband knew how old you were when he married you. He should confine his entertainment to places he can take his wife. P.S.: Check you state law. Maybe you can go with him and order tomato juice.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I should let the boys get fresh with me and then they won't ruin my reputation? I am 16 years old and everyone at school is saying I am fast. My best girlfriend just told me she couldn't associate with me any more because of my fast reputation. I know how I got it too. One boy got fresh with me after the basketball game and I slapped him so he

Afternoon Ceremony

MRS. CHARLES MARTIN JOHNSON

Clusters of lighted white candles and pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and greenery decorated the chancel of the First Methodist Church at Fremont Sunday afternoon, Feb. 2, for the wedding of Miss Leona Jean Kildee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Kildee of Fremont, and Charles Martin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson of Colorado Springs, Colo. In the presence of 200 guests, the Rev. Max O. McCamley read the lines of the 4 o'clock service. Mrs. Hakon Sorenson, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss Lois Marek.

As the maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Miller of Lincoln appeared in a sheath frock of mist rose iridescent faille, the snug waist caught by a tucked cummerbund ending in a modified bustle bow and streamers. Costumed identically in iridescent silk shading from the flesh tones through cameo pink and pink-beige were the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Lou Siemsen, Fremont, Miss Judy Jones of Chappell, and Miss Janice Bengie of Benkelman. They carried hearts of white lace centered with pink sweetheart roses. Miss Kay Ann Sandall of Bassett and Miss Arlene Hoppens, Harvard, lighted the candles, and the flower girl was Miss Peggy McCamley, Fremont.

Herman Raymond of Colorado Springs served as best man, and seating the guests were Calvin Walraven, Fremont, To D Moore of Wood River, and Verlin Boldry of Lincoln.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white silk taffeta. The snugly shirred bodice was designed with long, fitted sleeves and a portrait decoletage appliqued with imported lace dotted with pearls and iridescent sequins. The skirt flared into extreme width and ended in a chapel train beneath a large, back bow of the taffeta. Her illusion veil was held by a plateau cap of jeweled lace, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a white orchid.

Following the reception held in the church parlors, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for Colorado where they will make their home at Manitou Springs.

A former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, the bride is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta. Mr. Johnson attends Colorado College in Colorado Springs.

Truman Says He Doesn't Like 'Missouri Waltz'—He's Just Being Loyal To Old Home State

... HST Answers Murrow Questions

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he really doesn't like the son "Missouri Waltz"—his musical trade mark. He's just being loyal to the old home state.

Truman was interviewed a year ago on the Florida keys by Edward R. Murrow. The hour-long filmed session was seen on the CBS-TV program, "See It Now."

Truman's pithy comments ranged from playing to politics and personalities, and why he told off a critic of his daughter's singing.

Asked how the "Missouri Waltz" became his unofficial theme song, Truman replied: "I hate to go in to details on that but the Missouri Waltz was composed by a man from Iowa in 1914 and is called 'Hushaby My Baby.'"

"It's a ragtime song and if you let me say what I think—I don't give a damn about it, but I can't say it out loud because it's the song of Missouri. It's as bad as the Star Spangled Banner so far as music is concerned."

Sissy Thing

Truman said he started to play the piano when he was about 8 or 9. Like many boys when he was about 16, he said, "I decided it was a sissy thing to be a piano player and I quit."

The former President talked about his first job—washing windows and mopping floors in an Independence, Mo., drug store for $3 a week. He told how he joined the National Guard and got a nice, beautiful blue uniform which he took to show his grandmother.

He said his grandmother, whose house had been burned by federal troops during the Civil War, told him: "That's a very beautiful uniform, but it's the first time a blue uniform's been in this house since the Civil War. Don't bring it back here." Truman said he didn't.

A captain in the field artillery during World War I, Truman told of trying to get back in the Army in World War II. Then Sen. Truman (D-Mo) he stopped in to see Gen. George Marshall about it. As Truman tells it Marshall asked him, "Senator, how old are you?"

"I'm 56," said Marshall. "You're too damned old. You go on back and stay in the Senate." "I'm four years younger than you are," Truman said he told Marshall, to which the latter replied: "Yes, but I'm already in."

Truman said he never acted on affairs of state as a result of losing his temper, adding: "I think about the only times that I ever acted really out of sorts was when I told a music critic where to get off when he said some mean things about my daughter (Margaret, now Mrs. Clifton Daniel). If I had thought about it a while I probably wouldn't have done it."

A chief executive, he said, must be able to take criticism: "If he's got a thin skin he's got no business being in the presidency."

Truman said he chose then Gen. Eisenhower to head the North Atlantic Treaty Organization because he, as commander of the allied forces in Europe, "understood the situation." As for NATO, Truman said, Eisenhower "did a good job of it."

Had To Be Done

Capsuled comments by Truman on world personalities:

Gen. Douglas MacArthur: "I never had anything personal against the general. He's a great military man... but he brought it on himself (fired as Far East commander) and it had to be done."

Sir Winston Churchill: "One of the most agreeable men I ever met... a hard bargainer." Jawaharlal Nehru, India's leader: "An honest man but he doesn't think down our line very well."

Former Soviet Foreign Minister V. Molotov: "One of the pigheadedest men that I've ever come in contact with."

Agreeable

The late Soviet Premier Stalin: "He made a very agreeable impression upon me (at Potsdam). Of course, I didn't know at that time he had no intention of keeping it (agreement)."

Truman said he does not know who originated the phrase "give 'em hell, Harry." "I always told them," he said, "when they would say that to me in a crowd, that I never did give anybody hell. I just told the truth on 'em and they thought it was hell."

Legal Procedures For Murder Cases Outlined

Here outlined are the legal procedures under Nebraska law in cases of homicide:

Defendant must be taken before a judge as soon as possible after arrest.

This would be appearance before county judge in county court. At this time, defendant may plead guilty, not guilty, stand mute or plead nolo contendere.

If defendant stands mute, then a plea of not guilty is entered by the judge.

If the plea is not guilty, defendant is entitled to a preliminary hearing at which the judge has only to determine that a crime has been committed and that there is probable cause to believe the defendant committed it.

Defendant is then bound over to District Court.

Every crime is bailable except in first degree murder where the evidence is clear and presumption is great, in which case defendant is bound over to District Court without bond.

The County Attorney then files an information in District Court, a copy of which is served on the defendant.

Any time after 24 hours defendant may be arraigned in District Court.

When arraigned in District Court, the information is read to defendant and defendant is asked again to plead.

At this time, defendant may plead guilty, not guilty, not guilty by reason of insanity, stand mute or plead nolo contendere.

If defendant pleads guilty, a jury must be called, a time fixed by the judge, since jury must fix penalty.

Evidence must be presented by the State to establish the degree of murder.

The jury then accepts the plea of guilty and decides whether penalty shall be the death sentence or life imprisonment.

This must be accepted by the judge and the defendant sentenced accordingly.

The same procedure applies in the event defendant pleads nolo contendere.

If defendant pleads not guilty or not guilty by reason of insanity, defendant is entitled to trial by jury.

Defendant may be charged with only one murder at a time. If defendant should plead not guilty and be found not guilty by the jury, the State may file charges on each of the other homicides, but each must be considered at a separate trial.

If Found Guilty, Caril Fugate Could Get Electrocutation

Under Nebraska law, if 14-year-old Caril Fugate should be convicted of first degree murder and the jury fix the death sentence penalty, she would be executed as prescribed by law—electrocution.

If sentenced to life imprisonment, she would be incarcerated at the Women's Penitentiary at York, but would be completely segregated from adult felons until after reaching the age of 16. At that time segregation would terminate and she would be treated as an adult prisoner at the York institution.

Ike Gets Bulganin Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin Sunday sent a new 17-page message to President Eisenhower reportedly dealing with prospects for arranging an East-West summit conference and discussing issues which might arise in such a meeting.

The Soviet Embassy, which delivered the message to the State Department Sunday afternoon, also advised the department that Mikhail A. Menshikov, Moscow's new ambassador to Washington, will arrive here in mid-week—probably Wednesday or Thursday.

The State Department confirmed receipt of the Bulganin message, which replies to a letter Eisenhower sent the Soviet Premier on Jan. 12. In it Eisenhower called for careful advance diplomatic preparation with evidence of good hope of success before a summit conference is agreed to.

No Comment

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, also confirming delivery of the Bulganin message, said there would be no immediate comment on it.

The President, Hagerty said, won't get a complete translation until Monday morning.

Elmer Scheele Praises Local Law Officials

County Attorney Elmer Scheele, in a weekend conference with representatives from the County Sheriff's office and the Lincoln Police Department, praised these agencies and declared he has never seen "any more efficient or more devoted law enforcement officials than we have in Lincoln and Lancaster County."

Scheele said he believed some "misconceptions" that "have been given to the public" need correcting. He said that public criticisms that have been made (concerning the murder case of Robert Colvert and the investigation of subsequent killings by Charles Starkweather) are not entirely accurate and are in some instances grossly distorted.

He told the lawmen that "you know that every piece of information, no matter how meager, has been carefully followed up and investigated. You know that the original clues which were available following the discovery of the body of Robert Colvert early on the morning of Dec. 1st did not furnish any specific lead toward the identity of any known person or any known automobile."

The County Attorney declared that "none of the information developed during the course of the (Colvert) investigation led any of us to realize that Charles Starkweather was involved."

He termed it "only human nature for people... to second guess," and added that "we must all expect a certain amount of criticism in any case."

'No Description In Notes'—Zieman

Deputy Sheriff Del Zieman said he was never given a description of Charles Starkweather during early December interviews with Robert McClung, former Crest Service Station attendant.

McClung of 1210 Nelson said he had described Starkweather to a "husky deputy sheriff" as a "red-headed kid who drove a 1941 blue Ford."

Deputy Sheriff Robert Anderson was erroneously identified in Saturday's editions of the Star as the deputy who questioned McClung shortly following the Dec. 1 death of Robert G. Colvert, another Crest attendant.

Zieman said his notes, made during interviews with McClung, contained no description of anyone "with red hair" nor does he recall any such description being given.

Home Builders Pass Resolution For Cushman Site

A resolution favoring the rezoning of a tract in Southeast Lincoln for heavy industry was presented to the City Planning Commission by the Home Builders Association of Lincoln.

The change in zoning is sought by the Cushman Motor Works which plans to construct a new plant there.

The resolution said the rezoning would, increase property values in the area and would be beneficial to the entire city.

It also called the tract, not suitable for residential purposes, but suitable for industrial usage.

Drunken Escapades Bring Ouster Of Streltsov

RUSSIAN SOCCER STAR BOOTED OFF TEAM

MOSCOW (U-P)—Edouard Streltsov, one of Russia's top soccer stars, was kicked off the National Soviet team Sunday and reduced to bush league status in an expose of several drunken escapades.

The newspaper Trud reverted Streltsov's demotion. The newspaper Komosmol Pravda also carried a report that several other stars have been warned in the scandal.

The denunciation broke on the eve of the team's departure for an international meet. It also comes at a time when the Soviet State Committee For Sports, is rallying its ranks for the coming world championships in Sweden.

Komsolmol Pravda charged that executives of the Sports Committee, specifically Valentine Antipenok, have been spoiling the stars instead of handing out punishment for their "excesses." The "excesses" listed were "drinking sessions, turning up drunk for training, speeding and driving around in flashy limousines while lesser members of the team were transported in humble buses."

The payoff came, the newspaper said, when Streltsov and a teammate missed a train after a party. They sped off in a car, the newspaper said, and after a hurried call to the ministry of railways managed to have the train slow down to pick them up at a way station.

Streltsov now has to purge himself and work his way up through the ranks if he ever wants to play big league soccer again, the newspaper added.

Koehler Leading Bowlers

Bill Koehler, thanks to a 733 series in his last trip to the bowling alleys, takes over the leadership in The Star's compilation of the top ten Capital City bowlers.

Koehler, who bowls for the 9th & L Drive-In team in the Bowl-Mor Classic League, boosted his average from 188 to 190 with the big series.

Bob Gant, Koehler's chief competition in the running for the top spot in recent weeks, retains second place with a 188 average while Jack McKinney held third with a 187.

In the women's division, Marie Maul is still far ahead of the rest of the field with a 181 average for Mason Electric in Hollywood's Greater Lincoln Ladies League.

Lois Mousel, with a 173 average in 27 sub games in the same league, jumped into second place. Most consistent bowler in the women's top ten is Bert Nelson, who has a 166 mark in leagues at Hollywood and the Bowl-Mor.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant

Sports Editor, The Star

Judging from its opening performance, the Nebraska track team will supply the home folks with plenty to cheer about during the indoor dual season.

Frank Sevine's Huskers have the standouts and the depth to insure a successful campaign, but there are still some bare spots which must be filled before they become sure-fire title threats in the Kansas City indoor carnivals.

Any worries that Keith Gardner had slowed down were dispelled in the opening meet.

The Jet is in great shape and had things all to himself in three events. He easily outdistanced K-State's low hurdle champion, Gene O'Connor, in both flights last week. Of course, it could be a different story in the conference clambake.

Gardner never ceases to impress me, not only with his recognized track ability but with his magnetic personality. Keith is a fine lad who, more than any other individual, has pulled NU track up by the bootstraps.

This doesn't mean I'm overlooking the outstanding work being done by Sevine, either. Frank attracted Gardner and it was the best move he could have possibly made.

But Keith captured the fancy of the fans who had long wanted a winner—in any sport. He was the guy who could win. And he was the guy who waved to acknowledge applause and cheers. He was the guy who put the starch in a bankrupt Husker track program.

Joe Mullins looks like he'll be the one to step into Gardner's shoes when the latter departs after the outdoor season. Mullins, despite the fact he was victimized by an error and didn't have any competition, was impressive in the opener.

Others are coming along, too, and there is little doubt Nebraska track is on a sound and winning basis.

Speaking of track, it was a shame someone didn't check Dale Knotek's eligibility earlier—say before the training season began.

Here was a boy who passed up a chance to graduate early in order to help the Huskers for another season, worked hard in practice, got in shape and was all ready for the first meet. Then comes the discovery that it was all a mistake. He was all through.

Not only did the mishandling of the Knotek case hurt the Cornhuskers—at least three and possibly more points in the conference indoor were wiped out, to mention a specific injury—but the boy was the victim of gross injustice.

Lyle Nannen's exit from the Nebraska basketball picture could be the back-breaker for the Huskers.

Currently riding in the Big Eight cellar, the Cornhuskers have had personnel disappointments all year.

First Bob Mayo flopped and Jerry Bush's hopes for a sophomore "big man" sensation evaporated. Now Nannen, who is a tested veteran although not the standout type, is washed up in the middle of the campaign.

Nannen's loss may not be critical in itself, but it is an unsettling circumstance at a time when Bush undoubtedly would have preferred some tranquility.

Chadron's high-flying Eagles, after a long wait, finally moved into first place in the Nebraska College Conference race, but must turn in a good performance against Peru this weekend to stay on top.

The Eagles, who polished off Kearney 78-67 and 73-72 last week for their seventh and eighth consecutive victories, now have a 9-1 record.

Hastings, finally dumped by Wayne 65-64, dropped into second place with an 8-1 record. Chadron has been unbeaten on its home floor in six outings while compiling a 3-1 mark on foreign courts. This may make some difference as the Eagles tackle the Bobcats at Peru.

Hastings gets three tries to move back into first if Chadron stumbles. The Broncos face Kearney at Minden Tuesday, travel to Doane Thursday and then host Concordia Saturday night.

Wayne, winner of three straight including the upset of Hastings, bids for a first division spot at Nebraska Wesleyan Tuesday and then entertains Doane Saturday. Besides Wayne, Wesleyan plays Midland and Kearney this week.

In another important contest this week, Dana and Midland battle to keep out of the loop cellar Saturday night.

Beatrice gained a notch to seventh place, and Omaha North also moved up a notch to ninth. Creighton Prep and Scottsbluff move in on the bottom rungs, replacing North Platte and York.

York didn't play last week, and Ogallala won a pair to stay second. Following Lexington, Crete and Holy Name held their positions, while Holdrege gained a notch to sixth and Cozad is in seventh after toppling from third. Pius X is still No. 8, Omaha Westside gains to ninth, and Falls City moves back in the list replacing Plattsmouth.

In Class B, Fullerton won another game to stay ahead of the pack, but Grant, second last week, lost to Class D Paxton and drops out of the list. Mitchell, Hebron and Chappell replace Grant, Neigh and Bayard in the list.

Tony Playing Best Tennis Of His Life

Yank Trabert Whips Hoad

SYDNEY (U-P)—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, the forgotten man of professional tennis, upset Australian ace Lew Hoad 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 Sunday in the semifinals of a big money tournament at White City Stadium.

"I never played better in my life," said Trabert after a resounding "comeback" that included a first-round victory over Ken Rosewall. Hoad's tennis twin in their amateur days.

Trabert meets either Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles or Aussie Frank Segman in Tuesday's final for the $4,200 prize. Even as the runnerup, Trabert would receive $3,150—his biggest tournament haul.

Sedgman and Gonzales play the other semifinal tonight.

Trabert Sunday showed all his old dash, smashing fiercely and forming an almost impassable barrier at the net.

The third set, as the American got more and more in front, his service was far more deadly than anything Hoad put down.

Hoad was listless and far below his top. Dozens of times he hit volleys and ground strokes

Sprague-Martell Tourney Favorite

Central High of Sprague-Martell, one of the top Class D teams in the state, is heavily favored to win the Lancaster County basketball tournament opening at Nebraska Wesleyan tonight.

Eight teams have entered both the basketball and girls volleyball action running through Friday, with Tuesday off.

First round basketball games tonight pit Firth against Panama at 7:30, followed by Walton vs Malcolm. On Wednesday, Sprague-Martell will open the basketball action against Raymond, with Hickman facing Bennet at 9 p.m.

Semi-finals start at 7:30 Thursday, with the third place and championship games slated Friday.

Sprague-Martell's toughest competition is expected to come from Hickman, but Central disposed of Hickman 67-48 just last Friday. Central now has a 12-2 record for the year.

In volleyball, Panama and Sprague-Martell open the volleyball competition at 6 p.m. tonight, followed by Firth and Hickman. On Wednesday, Raymond meets Malcolm and Walton plays Bennet.

Iowa State Fencers Outpoint Nebraska

IOWA CITY, Ia.—The University of Iowa fencing team defeated the University of Nebraska here by winning 16 of 27 bouts.

The Iowa fencers won 5-4 in sabre, and 7-2 in epee competition while Nebraska took the foil matches, 5-4.

R. Paul Armato paced Nebraska with two wins in the foil matches and three in the sabre competition.

Lincolnite Captures Table Tennis Titles

OMAHA—Ilmars Bergmanis of Lincoln copped the singles championship and then teamed with Dr. Gene Butler of Omaha for the doubles crown in the Omaha City Open table tennis tournament.

Bergmanis, a former University of Nebraska table tennis champ, beat Arnold Brown of Omaha for the singles title. He and Dr. Butler won the doubles crown over Brown and Fricat Basha of Lincoln.

Toski Triumphs

KINGSTON, Jamaica (U-P)—Little Bob Toski of Miami, Fla., won the Jamaican Open Golf Tournament after a sudden death playoff with Herman Barrow, also of Miami.

They both toured the 72 holes in five-under-par 283 and had to go to the second extra hole before Toski's birdie decided the issue.

Venturi Wins 2nd Straight Golf Tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U-P)—Ken Venturi, the San Francisco newcomer, sank a short birdie putt on the 18th green for a needed 1-under par on that hole to score a 274 and win the $15,000 Phoenix Golf Open.

Venturi, in the last threesome of the day, came into 18 with a 1-over par. The 26-year-old winner of last week's Thunderbird Invitational sank the pressurized putt to beat out Walter Burkemo and Jay Hebert by a single stroke.

Burkemo, six strokes off the pace Saturday, came roaring back Sunday with a 6-under-par 65. It was the best 18-hole round of the 72-hole open. It was a three-way battle to the final nine holes as Burkemo continued to fire super golf, Hebert steady golf and Venturi unable to sink a putt until the last one.

When Burkemo dropped his 4-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th, it gave him 275. Hebert missed a 4-foot putt on the 18th that would have put him in a tie with Venturi.

Hebert fired a 1-under-par 70 over the Phoenix Country Club Course.

Hebert turned the first nine two strokes in front, but Venturi put on a great finish to pull it out. In addition to his 18-hole birdie, he sank a 1-under-par putt on the 17th green. Defying the old hex of winning two tournaments in a row, Venturi picked up $2,000 first money.

Burkemo and Hebert each pocketed $1,400.

Notre Dame Beats Mizou Tracksters

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (U-P)—Notre Dame won 7 of 12 events and swept the 440-yard dash and the 800-yard run to beat Missouri in an indoor dual track meet 59 1/2 to 41 1/2.

Steve Dornbach of Notre Dame won the 60-yard low hurdles in 6.9 seconds to tie the Notre Dame lifetime record and took the high hurdles also for the only double victory.

Knight-Pickart Win

BOMBAY (U-P)—Billy Knight of Britain paired with countryman Tony Pickart for the men's doubles title in Western India's lawn tennis championships Sunday, defeating India's Rananathan Kirshnap and Uday Kumar 1-6, 7-9, 6-2, 6-4, 9-7.

Kentucky, West Va. Only Losers

By The Associated Press

Here's how the top 10 teams in the Associated Press basketball poll did last week. Won-lost records, including Saturday, in parentheses:

1. West Virginia (15-1)—lost to Duke 72-66, beat Florida State 103-51.
2. Kansas (12-2)—did not play.
3. Cincinnati (15-2)—beat Miami of Ohio 79-59, beat Duquesne 72-61.
4. Kansas State (15-1)—beat Colorado 83-64.
5. San Francisco (15-1)—beat Los Angeles Loyola 52-35, beat Pepperdine 105-59.
6. Oklahoma State (15-2) lost to Houston 70-64, beat St. Louis 65-34.
7. North Carolina (13-3)—beat South Carolina 115-88.
8. Kentucky (14-4)—lost to Georgia Tech 71-52, beat Georgia 74-55, beat Florida 78-56.
9. Maryland (11-3)—beat Navy 61-51.
10. N.C. State (12-3) beat Clemson 26-24.

Bold Ruler Entered

BOWIE, Md. (U-P)—Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler has been nominated for the $100,000 added John B. Campbell Handicap at Bowie March 29, it was announced.

The 1957 horse of the year joins Gallant Man among the group named for the fifth running of the mile and one sixteenth test.

Oscar Out Of Scoring Lead

27-Point Pace Against Duquesne Helps Wilt, Elgin Baylor

PITTSBURGH (U-P)—Elgin Baylor of Seattle and Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas have taken the lead for major college individual basketball scoring honors from Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson.

And all because Robertson scored a sub-par 27 points in Cincinnati's 72-61 victory over Duquesne before a sellout crowd of 5,151.

Campy Said Much Better

GLEN COVE, N. Y. (U-P)—Roy Campanella was reported "much better" Sunday, although his palsy "shows only slight improvement."

The burly Los Angeles Dodgers' catcher, injured critically in a Tuesday morning auto accident near his home here continued to regain feeling in his body. He was paralyzed from his chest to his toes when his neck was broken in the crash.

The hospital report said Campanella spent a "restful night" and that his "lung infection is almost cleared." The infection developed Thursday night.

The report also said Campanella now is eating strained foods "and enjoys it," adding:

"He is much more cheerful and has been talking more."

There still is a ban on visitors, however, except for his wife.

6 Garden Oil Wells Reported

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — The week-end oil-gas news developments in western Nebraska were highlighted Sunday by reports of six wildcat oil drilling locations in Garden County.

O'Dell Oil Corp. of Denver announced a six-well wildcatting program and already has begun drilling on the No. 1 Schmid, located about 7 miles west and 1 mile south of Oshkosh gas field.

O'Dells other five locations include:

The No. 1 D. V. Paulsen, 7 miles west of the Oshkosh gas field.

The No. 1 Stevens Estate, 6 miles west and 1/2 mile north of the Oshkosh gas field.

The No. 1 Clopine, 9 1/2 miles west-southwest of the Oshkosh gas field.

In all, 13 new drilling locations were announced for western Nebraska during the week.

Development-forecast more interesting to oil men than six would be in Garden County is the fact that observers have been saying for 10 years that Garden County would soon figure in Panhandle oil production.

Discoveries at one or two of the wildcat locations could mean a shot in the arm for western Nebraska oil activity and would shift the spot-light temporarily, at least, away from the Kimball-Banner County area where most of the action has been the past 18 months.

Meanwhile, Nebraska State Oil Co. has announced it will begin a wildcat test in Blaine County.

In oil-rich Cheyenne County, three wells were reported approaching the "crucial stage," but none was far enough along to tell of success or failure.

LOUP CITY PAPER IS HONORED

... National Contest

A Nebraska newspaper was one of five national winners in weekly division of the 1957 National Newspaper Week contest, it was announced Sunday. The paper is the Sherman County Times of Loup City, published by Mr. and Mrs. Elden V. Bass.

Contest results were announced by Dick Miller of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, chairman of the contest committee.

The Times was one of three honorable mention winners in the contest. First place winner was the Chester (Illinois) Herald-Tribune, and runner-up was the National City-Chula Vista (California) Star-News.

Winner of the daily division was the Ledger-Inquirer of Columbus, Georgia.

Also Cited In '55

The Nebraska weekly won similar honors in the 1955 contest.

The contest was open to all weekly and daily newspapers in the country. Entrants presented evidence in the form of displays and scrap books as to what they did to promote National Newspaper Week in their communities.

The week is observed annually October 1-8 and is sponsored by Newspaper Association Managers, an organization of state, regional and national press association managers of which Vern Scofield of Lincoln, Nebraska manager, is the president.

Fairbury Student Represents State In Colonial Event

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — A Fairbury High School junior, Robert Gallamore, has been chosen to represent Nebraska when the Williamsburg Student Burgesses convene Feb. 9 through 12.

A new educational event for young people, sponsored by colonial Williamsburg, the Student Burgesses will bring together high school students from coast to coast and those from 35 foreign countries to discuss "Democratic Leadership in the World: A Challenge to Youth."

The American representation will consist of students who are presidents of the National Assn. of Student Councils.

Gallamore, who plans to enter education administration, takes part in school dramatics and sports and is president of his class. He is an Eagle Scout and a member of his church choir and youth group.

DUBLIN LASS CHARMS SCOTTSBLUFF PEOPLE

Lincoln Star Special

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. — A hint of heather has been dropped here by a visitor, sweet and charming Maurine Kennedy Martin of Dublin, Ireland, who has captured the hearts of residents of this area with her singing.

Her sweet, fresh and young voice has been heard by many members of Scottsbluff civic groups here and in nearby towns and she has sung at several polio benefits.

A student at Trinity College of Dublin where she is studying philosophy, Miss Martin, 20, is visiting here in the Bernard Wlaschin home. Her invitation to visit this country came as a result of her friendship with Ken Wlaschin while he was studying for his master's degree at the University of Dublin last year.

MAURINE MARTIN

ing here in the Bernard Wlaschin home. Her invitation to visit this country came as a result of her friendship with Ken Wlaschin while he was studying for his master's degree at the University of Dublin last year.

She is visiting the United States on a six months visa, which still has four months to run. Then she will return home to continue her philosophy studies.

Many residents of the area have been enchanted by her singing over a local radio station where she was a guest of Doris Berry. She recently made a tape recording to send back to Dublin to a radio station, which she says gave her a start.

Never Studied Music

The sweetness and freshness of her voice has amazed many people when they learn that she has never studied music, nor has she ever taken a guitar lesson.

Her hobbies are music and collecting of folk songs. She has a large repertoire of them from Ireland and Scotland for Miss Martin is truly a daughter of the British Isles. She has lived most of her life in London and her parents are Scottish.

She says she loves this rolling country of western Nebraska. She especially likes the bluffs, the sky, sunsets and the sunshine.

"We do not have as much sunshine in Ireland," she says. "This is heavenly to be out in the sun."

Fund Drive Begun For Hail Control

Lincoln Star Special

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. — A drive for funds to finance hail suppression during 1958 will start at once, directors of Valley Hail Suppression, Inc., have reported.

It is hoped the campaign can be completed before farm work begins.

Plans to circulate petitions to place a proposal to form a weather control district on the spring ballot also were announced by the directors. They pointed out, however, that tax money would not be available until the 1959 program even if the tax proposal passes.

The 1957 legislature passed legislation which makes the formation of such a district possible. The bill limits the tax to a minimum of one mill which would be levied on all real estate and personal property.

The proposed district would include all of Scotts Bluff County, irrigated sections of Sioux County, three precincts in Morrill county and the north part of Wright precinct in Banner County.

TRADITION?

Rites Monday For Emil Kokes, Ord

ORD, Neb. — Funeral services will be 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Ord Catholic Church for Emil Kokes, 52, Ord businessman who apparently suffered a heart attack after shoveling snow Friday.

A native of Valley County, he had lived all his life in the Ord vicinity. He farmed until four years ago when he moved to Ord, where he operated a liquor store.

Surviving are his wife, Wilhelm; two daughters, Mrs. Jeanette Armatis of Omaha, and Darlene of Ord; a son, Charles of Ord, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kokes of Burwell.

County Heart Fund Goal Is $24,499

The 1958 Heart Fund goal for Lincoln and Lancaster County will be $24,499, City Chairman Eugene Ingram and County Chairman Ray Oltman of Hallam announced.

The goal is 12 per cent higher than the 1957 total, reflecting the Nebraska Heart Association's increased emphasis on research, the chairman said.

Ingram said, to make our goal, we are counting heavily on our new Heart Tuesday Business Appeal which will be held Tuesday when 300 volunteers will canvass business and professional offices.

Research constituted 51 per cent of the association's total budget during 1957, they reported.

Heart Fund donations also support the Education and Community Service programs of the Heart Association.

Three of every four dollars collected in Lincoln and Lancaster County will stay in Nebraska to support the programs of the state association. The remainder will support national programs of the American Heart Association.

$5,000 GIFT TO HOME FOR AGED

POTTER, Neb. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hill, farmers northeast of here, have added $5,000 to the fund for construction of an addition to Cheyenne County Memorial Hospital for a home for the aged.

The hospital board of directors is studying the advisability of obtaining professional help for fund raising campaigns to obtain at least $100,000.

It is estimated that the hospital addition which would include the geriatrics wing (home for the aged) would cost in the neighborhood of $250,000 when completed.

LEXINGTON COUNCIL ELECTS; SEWAGE PLANT IS PLANNED

Lincoln Star Special

LEXINGTON, Neb. — New officers of the Lexington Community Council are E. A. Cook III, president; Mrs. C. A. Bishop, vice-president; and Mrs. Norval Neil, secretary-treasurer.

They were named at the Council meeting when announcements were given by S. Y. Gillan, acting city manager; J. G. Burgeson, supt. of schools; Floyd Housel, president of the Board of Education; and by persons representing various clubs.

In a summary of city activities, Gillan pointed out that Lexington's financial condition can be considered "strong." He also noted that plans are being made to build a sewage treatment plant, however, a vote of the people will be taken before construction is begun. Estimated cost of this project is $385,000 with 30% of this amount available from Federal aid.

Gillan reported that nearly $1,100, collected in 10-cent parking meter fines during a six-month period, was given to the Lexington ton schools since these violation charges are considered fines.

"New owners of the waste collection business, Paul Fagot and Lawrence Fagot, are utilizing the new dumping grounds very successfully," said Gillan. He added that better service can be given to customers if they will have their garbage ready for pick-up service.

In other city activities, Gillan stated that new street lights had been added on Adams Street; all alleys were cleaned of rubbish at a cost of $2,000; and applications are now being taken by the City Council for the City Manager position.

March 11 Election

Housel, representing the Board of Education, announced that March 11 has been set as the tentative date for an election on the school building program.

Mrs. H. O. Barrett reported that the mobile X-ray unit will be here for a ten-day stay March 20 through April 2 with Mrs. L. W. Hirsch as local chairman. Representative Mrs. James Allen of the Community Concert Assn. related that the membership campaign will be held during the week of Feb. 10-15 with Mrs. C. L. Lovgren, chairman.

"Hello, Acme Investment? Buy ten shares of Modern Motors for me."

"Oops, sorry! Didn't know this island was inhabited!"

THE FOREST THAT GREW TWICE!
ON SAN NICHOLAS ISLAND--
OFF Southern Calif.,
"SANDSTONE TREES" ARE SLOWLY
EMERGING FROM THE SOIL WHERE A LUXURANT FOREST ONCE GREW!
BURIED UNDER SHIFTING SANDS FOR 500 YEARS,
THEY ARE NOW LITERALLY GROWING AGAIN!

"Better slide out my side, dear."

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Boer

If you gandered Rumpelstiltskin last twilight you piped a budget fairy tale from the Hans Anderson portfolio.

He was a kindly kobold who went around going good at people.

That's got to be a fairy tale these days.

We could use Rumpelstiltskin in spots where man's inhumanity to man exceeds the bag limit.

It would be a fairy tale of purest ray serene if the atom was used exclusively as a booster for water power, apartment heating and artichoke shucking.

But until that time arrives keep your powder dusty and your skin porous. All the talk about it is the preamble to a snuff in a butcher shop.

WISHING WELL

There is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's. etc. Single letters, abbreviations, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
